January 2024

Preparing your Home for Winter Weather

The month of January brings colder weather as well as the risk of weather related incidents. Below are some tips to prepare for this:

- Clean out your gutters to help prevent moisture build up and possible ice damage to roof or siding
- Clean debris out of downspouts to allow proper water drainage to prevent water from entering your foundation and water flooding the basement
- Assess your roof for leaks or cracks. If you have a chimney or skylight, check for a tight seal to withstand wind and snow
- Trim hanging tree limbs that may cause damage to the home due to high winds. Please contact a professional if the tree limbs are hanging over power lines
- Store your grill, outdoor furniture, and other outside decorations to prevent damage to the home in the event of high winds
- Empty garden hoses and winterize swimming pool water supply lines and sprinkler systems
- Service your generator to ensure it will perform well
